What Opportunities are Available in Lutheran Education?

There have been Lutheran schools in Australia since 1839, and currently there are schools and Early Childhood Services (ECS) in all states of Australia and in the Northern Territory.

Lutheran schools provide education from Early Childhood to Year 12, employing both general and specialist teachers.

School and ECS enrolments in Victoria, New South Wales and Tasmania are growing and there is an ongoing need for committed and qualified teachers who actively support the ethos and culture of Lutheran education.

Lutheran schools and ECSs:

- Provide an excellent education across a wide curriculum
- Serve students, parents, the church, the community and the government by providing a quality education for the whole person
- Equip students for a life of service to their communities.

What Qualifications do I need to Teach in a Lutheran School?

Qualifications to teach in a Lutheran school include:

- Completing the appropriate state qualifications and registration
- Completing requirements for accreditation as a teacher in a Lutheran school during your first three years of working in a Lutheran school (offered as professional learning by the school)

All staff in Lutheran schools and ECSs are expected to uphold the ethos and culture of that School or ECS.

Why Should I Consider Teaching in a Lutheran School or ECS?

- The opportunity to be involved in the personal growth and development of young people and to make a positive difference to their lives
- The opportunity to use and to develop your personal gifts in serving others
- Lutheran schools and ECSs provide teachers with a sense of belonging to a community that values, encourages and supports everyone in that community
- The Lutheran system is growing and offers opportunities for personal and professional growth and for leadership
- Teachers in a Lutheran school or ECS have a common purpose to educate others in the knowledge of God and of the world
- The schools share a common faith and consistent values, yet offer a diverse variety of professional experiences
- Pay is comparable with other education systems and with similar professions
- Employment conditions are good – leave entitlements, superannuation, years of service are transferable between schools
